Announcement.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT-SENTINEL:—
I hereby announce my name for the nomination of Infirmary Director of Hocking County at the Democratic primary election.

MARION SUTTER.

FOR CONGRESS

We announce the name of Judge O. W. H. Wright, of Hocking County, as a candidate before the Democratic convention for Congress from the Eleventh District of Ohio.

COUNTY TREASURER.

Mr. Editor please announce the name of Jesse W. Gabriel as a candidate for County Treasurer. Subject to the Democratic Primary Election. MANY DEMOCRATS.

W. J. BRYAN
The Next President of the United States

The Bryan Movement.

The spontaneous uprising in all parts of the country for Mr. Bryan is simply wonderful. It is now fully two years before a national convention for the nomination for president is to be held and yet without his asking or seeking it, several state Democratic conventions have declared for Mr. Bryan as their candidate for 1908. Not only this, but leading Democrats who opposed his nomination in both the years when he was made the nominee before, are now announcing themselves for him. Among these are Tom Taggart, of Indiana, and Editor Watterson, of the Courier Journal. If the national convention was to be held now, Bryan would have no opposition at all. The only question would be whether he desired to run again. He is in Europe now and will not be home until August. He has not at any time, signified a desire to be a candidate.

We say this unsought uprising for Mr. Bryan is wonderful. It is and yet it need not be wondered at. He is a man of great ability. He is an upright, honest man and a man of strong convictions. But the thing which makes all classes turn to him now is because he has been right all the time, and the people are coming to see it. In 1896, he was ten years ahead of most other people.—He opened the campaign with a divided party at his back, a Democratic president then in the chair refusing to support him and yet if the insurance scoundrels and the Wall street gamblers and combines and trusts had not shelled out their millions, he would have been elected. From that day to this he has steadily grown in public favor. He was but a young man then, but so carefully did he weigh his words and so well had he chosen the right side, that he has never had to take anything back, nor has a breath of suspicion ever rested upon him. Take the platform of 1896, which Mr. Bryan probably himself wrote; examine it. How well it suits conditions today. Everybody admits now that Mr. Bryan was right in 1896 when he demanded more basic money. We now have more than double what we had then and we have none too much. Nature came to the country's relief and gave us more gold which, for the time being, makes further agitation of free silver seemingly unnecessary. Mr. Roosevelt's attacks upon corrupt combinations has awakened the country to the fact that Mr. Bryan was right in 1896 and 1900. Not only was he right then, but he is right now, and all classes believe he is such a wise and safe man that none other than he would be so able to take hold of and straighten out the evils that have entrenched themselves in our country.—Mr. Roosevelt is not now looked upon as so safe a statesman as Mr. Bryan. This is why the Democracy of the nation and men of all parties are calling for Mr. Bryan.—McConnellsville Democrat.

Time's Up.

The time of the machine politician in Ohio is about up. The people have thrown off the sloth and slumber of contentment and the upheaval and return to the practice of the forefathers, when the delegate was the power and not a straw man, is due to arrive. The gathering of the Republicans at Columbus Wednesday plainly pointed to this. The very fact that there was division and difference of opinion demonstrated this fact, and while the incubus has not yet been thrown off, the time is at hand.

If the rank and file of the Republican party has slumbered in peaceful forgetfulness of its power: If it has let contentment rob it of its prerogative to dictate the platform, resolutions and actions and nominees of the party, it deserves to be defeated by the parasites who have climbed to prominence, power position and seeming strength because the sleeper failed to awake.

The spirit of individualism, of independent manhood is in the air, and the sleep of years is to end. Let the rank and file of Republicans awake. Let every delegate be chosen by his immediate constituents and, as their agent, voice the sentiment of that constituent majority.

Off with the collar of alleged leadership which pushes its own selfish interests forward despite the demand and sentiment of the constituency and the party at large. Let each voter attend the primary to select the delegate. Make the primary pure and then make the delegate truly represent the constituency and not some man at the head of affairs, no matter whether he lives here, Columbus or Washington.

Return to the true principle of American government. Have the mass choose the leader, not the leader drive the mass. Let there be open discussion of political matters. Crush the screen and the cabinet and the state chamber and let Republicans stand out in the light of day as men who wear no man's collar. Let each candidate obey no man's cry to halt or step forward except those men who have chosen him.

Be free, independent. Be men. And to him who threatens, or cajoles, who practices trickery: him to the outer darkness and political oblivion.

Defeat may come in this battle, anguish may result, but from the fire of the fight and the storm for the right will come party purity, strong men and high principle, and such a trio is bound to win when backed by the opinion of an electorate which knows that the men in the race represent them and not some machine leader who cares not for party, or principle, for country or honor, but whose sole patriotism is built on the questions, "Where do I come in?" "Will it benefit me?" "Will it aid our gang or the other fellows?"

Let the battle cry be "Freedom, Manliness, Purity and Patriotism," and back it up with the spirit and strength of conviction.—Scioto Gazette.

Southern Trip.

Miss Ethel Sisson has this week signed a contract with Mrs. Rowley's Ladies' Orchestra for the coming season and will leave here the first of August to join the orchestra in Columbus for a concert tour through Mississippi and will spend considerable time on and near the Gulf Mexico.

This year Mrs. Rowley has engaged about fifteen young ladies, all musicians of considerable ability, most of them conservatory girls, some have but recently returned from a course of study in Vienna. Mrs. Rowley's orchestra is composed of refined girls from cultured families and are under the strictest discipline while on these tours.

Miss Floss Speelman now of Columbus, who was formerly a Nelsonville girl and whose ability is well known in this city, will go with the company as trap drummer.

Miss Sisson has received a number of excellent offers for the coming season but she has decided to accept that of Mrs. Rowley. Her musical ability as a bass violinist is becoming widely known and her services are eagerly sought by directors of orchestras.

The tour will last until about the last of March, 1907.—Valley Register.

Hocking Society.

The Fourth Annual Reunion of the Hocking Society will be held at the Rempel's Grove, near Logan, Ohio, Thursday, August 16, 1906, with an all day session.

J. R. Shotwell of Scott, Ohio. President of the organization, has just given notice by letter that they expect from 300 to 500 people to come from North Western Ohio: Arrangements have been made with the Traction line to convey excursionists to Columbus, and with the H. V. R. R. from Columbus to Logan. The Home Comers will arrive at Logan afternoon of the 15, and the reception Committee will make arrangements either personally, or through their solicitors with our people for entertainment of the visitors.

The Reunion held at Conroy, Ohio, last year was attended by a woods full of people, (estimated at 5000.) The meeting of the Society two years ago held at Rempel's Grove, on a rainy day, was attended by an immense crowd from all the surrounding country and adjoining countries. The Committee has secured Rempel's Grove for the people, and two fields adjoining for hitching ground, anticipating one of the largest gatherings ever held in the County.

My Hair Ran Away

Don't have a falling out with your hair. It might leave you! Then what? That would mean thin, scraggly, uneven, rough hair. Keep your hair at home! Fasten it tightly to your scalp! You can easily do it with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is something more than a simple hair dressing. It is a hair medicine, a hair tonic, a hair food.

RARE MAP OF LONDON.

Only Two Copies, One at Paris, Other at British Museum.

It does not appear to be widely known that the second copy of the celebrated map of London, engraved at Litchborne in 1658, which was accidentally discovered half a century ago, can now be seen in the print room of the British Museum. There is only one other original copy in existence, and that is in the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris. There are at least two pieces of internal evidence by which the date of the survey can be definitely determined as having been made between the years 1643 and 1647. Cheapside cross, which was demolished in the former year, does not appear in the map, but that long known as Charing cross, which was cleared away in 1647, is depicted as standing in all its glory.

The engraving of the map was not completed until 1658, and advantage was taken of the delay to introduce the new buildings and improvements up to that date, as, for example, the new buildings on the west side of Lincoln's Inn Fields and Clare market, which was opened by John Holles, earl of Clare, in 1656. Pall Mall is represented as a pleasant walk, with a double row of trees on the north side.

A windmill marks the site and origin of the name of the present Windmill street. The gaming house that existed at that period at the top of the Haymarket is also represented. From Stepney to London is open country, the only water shown in St. James' park runs from north to south across the present parade ground, and in the middle of the roadway of Holborn, near the top of Chancery lane, is shown a row of small houses that completely obstructed the view along that thoroughfare.

It is considered questionable, it may be added, whether the map was ever published, for the period was one of considerable turmoil, and there seems little doubt that the plates and their impressions perished in the great fire of 1666.—Pall Mall Gazette.

His Excuse.

In a local business house a night watchman has been under suspicion for some time of falling asleep at his post. The other night when the house was open until near midnight the manager came suddenly upon the watchman and found him fast asleep in a chair in a secluded part of the busiest room in the establishment. Waking him rudely, he said: "John, you had better go to the office and get your money. You were asleep! You're fired!"

"I was awake all the time," expostulated the watchman. "Rats! Didn't I hear you snoring?"

"Sure, but there is a couple of crooks in the vicinity, and I've been piping them off. I was snoring to let them think I was asleep."

The excuse was so brazen that the manager decided to give him one more chance, and so he escaped with a reprimand.—Albany Journal.

Sailors' Trousers.

"Why," said a landsman, "are sailor trousers so baggy at the bottoms?"

"They are baggy at the bottoms," the mariner replied, "so that they will roll up above the knee conveniently and easily. Sailors are great deck washers, and in deck washing it is necessary to have the legs bare to the knees. Trousers of ordinary cut rolled above the knees would cramp the flesh of the upper leg and impede the circulation, but sailor trousers may be taken by their wide bottoms and pulled in a jiffy up to the hip. They fit the upper leg like a hip boot.

"Sailor trousers, in a word, have so odd a shape because they are cut from the knee down to fit the leg from the knee up."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Black Men In Persia.

Old inscriptions and carvings have shown that there existed in ancient Persia members of a race of black skinned men who possessed features resembling those of Africans. The origin of these people as well as their apparent disappearance in modern times has furnished puzzling questions for ethnologists. Some have supposed that in prehistoric times the greater part of southern Asia was occupied by a primitive black race, of which only vestiges remained when the empires of Babylonian and Assyria arose.

Not In Tune.

"I see you have made 'short' and 'sport' rhyme," said the critic, as though the idea was too absurd for anything.

"What is the matter with that?" asked the poet, who took criticism about as pleasantly as a small boy takes castor oil.

"You know," said the critic, shaking his head gravely, "when a sport is short he is out of tune with everything."

His Account Book.

Jefferson De Angellis, still starring in "Fantana," has a tiny nephew who is inclined to be a bit of a spendthrift. In an effort to check the boy's extravagance Mr. De Angellis recently gave him a dime with the advice that hereafter he keep an account of his expenditures. This is the account:

May 3, got 10 cents..... 10c.
May 3, spent 5 cents..... 5c.
May 4, spent the other..... 5c.

Bliss Business College, Columbus, Ohio, is the only school in the State that for the last four years has made and successfully carried out the following proposition:—TO ALL GRADUATES OF THE COMBINED COURSE WHO ENROLL ON OR BEFORE OCTOBER 1st, WE GUARANTEE A POSITION OR REFUND ONE-HALF OF TUITION MONEY. Many schools will tell you of the wonderful success they are having in placing their graduates, but the Bliss school is the only one that will back up these statements with a substantial financial guarantee.

We are now located in our elegant new quarters which are conceded by business college men throughout the United States to be the finest, best arranged, and most elegantly equipped for business training of any institution on the continent. A visit to our school will thoroughly convince you of the truth of this statement.

Have you read our little booklet entitled "The Start," or "The Experience of Others," or have you seen our elegant new pictorial catalogue? All of these will interest you. If you drop us a card, giving us the names of five or six students who contemplate a business course, we will send you a splendid pencil holder or pocket mirror.

DOES NOT WANT THE OFFICE

Colonel Shook Declines to Be Drafted as Trustee of Mutual Life.

USES VERY PLAIN LANGUAGE

Says He Would Be With The Minority and Could Do No More Than Protest Against Policies Inimical to Policyholders' Interests.—Whole Board Should Be Ousted.

New York, July 25.—After a conference with the counsel for the policyholders' committee of the Mutual Life Insurance company Colonel Shook of Nashville, Tenn., who was placed on the administration ticket for trustee without his consent, said:

"The revelations during the past year as to flagrant extravagance in the conduct of the business, gross mismanagement, diversion of the sacred trust funds for unauthorized purposes, and wanton disregard for the interests of policyholders constitute an indictment not only against the officers who were directly responsible but against the trustees to whom the policyholders have a right to look for protection. The throwing overboard of a few officers who were caught and pilloried by public opinion for misdeeds is simply a tub thrown to the whale of outraged and injured policyholders. We believe that the real power which has been in control of the affairs of this company, and which put in office the men who, when caught, it then disposed, is still seeking to dominate. It was this power, we are constrained to conclude, which caused men of conscience to retire from the board of trustees months ago when they found themselves in a minority in advocating measures to the highest and best interests of policyholders. We cannot see it otherwise than that, if we were elected on the ticket proposed by the administration, we would find ourselves in a hopeless minority and unable to do more than raise a voice of protest to policies disregardful of the policyholders' interests.

"The policyholders, who constitute the real company, and not the management, are entitled to not a minority who will look solely and alone to their interests, but to an entire board of trustees who will be thus actuated. We cannot get away from the conviction that there should be an entire change of control of this company from the elements heretofore in control to the policyholders themselves. It is neither logical nor safe to trust a second time those who have once been false."

DEMOCRATS

Will Open Congressional Campaign Headquarters In Chicago.

Chicago, July 25.—The western division of the Democratic Congressional campaign committee will open headquarters at the Palmer house in Chicago, August 1. Plans arrangements were made by Congressman Rainey of Illinois and Lloyd of Missouri, who were appointed by Chairman Griggs of the congressional committee to direct the movement. The western division will include Ohio and all northern states west of it and all states west of the Mississippi river except Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Socialists Make Nomination.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 25.—The Socialist state convention held here nominated William S. Dalton of Salt Lake City for judge of the supreme court and Homer P. Burt of Salt Lake for congressman. A resolution condemning as "anarchists" the governors of Idaho and Colorado for their actions toward Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, under arrest charged with the murder of former Governor Frank Steunenberg, was adopted.

Land Fraud Case.

Washington, July 25.—Justice Gould in criminal court denied the motion of counsel for defendants in the case of the United States against Frederick A. Hyde, John A. Beason, Henry P. Dimond and Joost H. Schneider, indicted in connection with public land frauds in Oregon and California, in which it was sought to compel the government to elect as to which of the counts in the indictments they will be tried upon.

CHARCOAL AS MEDICINE.

An Antidote For Poison and a Good Household Remedy.

Charcoal as a home medicine has many uses, says Medical Talk.

"For all forms of poison pulverized charcoal is recommended to act as if by magic."

Our opinion is that these accounts just now are greatly exaggerated. We doubt very much whether a poisonous dose of strychnine would be antidoted by charcoal. At the same time, we believe charcoal to be a very excellent remedy, especially in ptomaine poisoning. All kinds of fermentation of food within the stomach or decomposition of food are immediately corrected by charcoal.

For many years we have been in the habit of prescribing pulverized charcoal for cholera infantum. This we add to the milk or other fluid nourishment which the child is taking. The dose is immaterial. As much as can be taken will do no harm.

We believe that the frequent use of charcoal in most cases of dyspepsia would be beneficial. Charcoal is perfectly harmless and can be taken freely without the slightest danger.

Charcoal acts as a disinfectant and absorbent of noxious gases and thoroughly cleanses the whole alimentary canal. Therefore, while we regard these recent accounts about the curative virtues of charcoal as exaggeration, we are glad so innocent and useful a remedy as charcoal has been brought into prominence by them.

We recommend our readers to give pulverized charcoal a prominent place as a household remedy. It can be made by those who use wood as a fuel. Hard wood is the best. The coal should be a clean one. It can be pulverized with a rolling pin. Those who do not have access to coals can purchase the charcoal already pulverized at the drug store.

It is a cheap remedy. It is an efficient remedy. It is a harmless remedy, and it is a remedy that we can thoroughly recommend in all stomach and intestinal disorders. In cases where it does no good it certainly will do no harm.

If we were present at a case of accidental poisoning and had no other antidote convenient we should certainly use pulverized charcoal. Therefore, it may be well to bear this in mind. Should any one be poisoned in the household a doctor should be immediately sent for.

Foreign Tongues In Italy.

Few people, even in Italy probably, are aware of the number of colonies of foreigners in the country who speak different languages and are ignorant of Italian. There are at least half a dozen of these colonies, inhabiting quiet nooks of the peninsula, a little world to themselves. They are French, German, Slav, Albanian, Greek and Catalan. French is the language of the country folk about Aosta. German dialects are found about Domodossola and in parts of the Venetian province; Slav is spoken about Friuli, in the north, where it is Slavonian, and in the Molise, where it is Serb. There are about 30,000 Italo-Serbs. Albanian is spoken by about 110,000 Italians in fourteen circumscriptions of southern Italy and three in Sicily. Fifteen communes about Lecce and Meggio speak Greek. Catalan flourishes in Sardinia.—London Globe.
